despite the growing activity in the field of health economics very little is known about the influence of economic evaluation studies on health care decision making in the eu member states several investigations about the impact of health economic studies on decision making have been done but most of them did not involve decision makers themselves in this work the results of the euromet survey are reported and discussed to allow an international perspective different types of decision makers in nine european countries were surveyed besides the extent of knowledge about economic evaluation the actual and potential use of study results as well as barriers and incentives for the use of economic evaluation studies had been investigated

this textbook now in its second english edition is originally a translation of the g man textbook rechnen für lagerstättenkundler und rohstoffwirtschaftler teil 1 also translated into the chinese and russian languages compared to the previous english and german editions the chapters have been updated with new examples and in many cases amended the textbook is intended for the economic geologist who deals with the evaluation of deposits at an early stage of development once an exploration project has reached the feasibility stage the exact calculations that are necessary for a comprehensive technical and economic assessment will be performed by a team of geologists mining engineers metallurgists and economists in the early stages of exploration however any evaluator of deposits must be able to cover the whole spectrum himself since only order of magnitude parameters are available at this early stage the calculations can only yield order of magnitude results precise calculations would even be misleading since the evaluation does not yet aim at accurate economic assessment but at making the right decision should the investigation be abandoned or should it be continued at higher costs and with more detailed methods includes section reviews contains papers that appeal to a broad and global readership in all fields of economics
